

A wide-angle photograph of the Qatar National Convention Centre at night. The building's most striking feature is its massive, white, cantilevered roof that extends over a large area. This roof is supported by several thick, white, sculptural columns that resemble stylized human hands or arms reaching up. The interior of the building is visible through the glass facade, showing a brightly lit atrium. The sky above is a deep blue with some wispy clouds. In the foreground, there is a green lawn and a rocky area with some small trees and lights.

An introduction is in order

Beyond convention, we bring together a wide variety of corporate and cultural events under one roof. We have had the pleasure of welcoming international, prestigious events, world-renowned artists, and some of the brightest business minds throughout the past years.

QNCC is strategically located in the Education City alongside Qatar Science & Technology Park, the Sidra Medical Research Centre, elite universities, and research and technology institutions. We enjoy the advantages of the proximity to such organisations and the contact with the sharp minds they house.

We're not just a venue; we're an experience that everyone seeks to be part of.
